

why stewart?

Because we offer a closing process as green as your new project.

For many commercial projects, being eco-friendly is no longer optional, it's an imperative. People want their buildings to be as eco-friendly as possible. But what about the transaction for those properties? With the Stewart Green Initiative, we can provide a green title process – one that enables the entire transaction – from contract to close – to be completely paperless with a reduced carbon footprint. We've even created a rating system to judge and recognize our offices that make the move to green office practices. So now the process can be as green as the property.

Visit stewart.com/greeninitiative for more information on our green initiative, where it's available and why Stewart is the right title company for you.
